B'desh Chief Justice quits amid students' ultimatum

Students had asked the Hasina loyalist to resign by 1 pm

DHAKA, 10 AUG

Bangladesh's Chief Justice Obaidul Hassan and five other judges of the apex Appellate Division on Saturday tendered their resignation, five days after the fall of Sheikh Hasina's regime amid massive street protests and students marching towards the apex court demanding a revamp of the judiciary.

The 65-year-old top judge revealed his decision around 1pm after protesters of the Anti-Discrimination Student Movement gathered at the apex court premises.

The students had issued an ultimatum to him and the judges of the Appellate Division to resign by 1 pm

The students' ultimatum sought the ouster of chief justice and other judges "loyal to (Hasina's) Awami League".

Law adviser, equivalent to the minister of the newly-installed interim government, Prof Asif Nazrul said that the resignation letter would be sent to President Mohammad Shahabuddin "without delay for taking necessary measures" and he was expecting the process to be completed very soon. "We have received only the resignation letter of the chief justice. There is no update about (resignation) of others," Nazrul added.

Earlier, the full court meeting of the Supreme Court got cancelled as students issued a two-hour ultimatum for the resignation of the chief justice and other justices of the apex Appellate Division of the Supreme Court of unitary Bangladesh. In the face of student protest, Chief Justice Hassan postponed the meeting and later said that he would step down.

Bangladesh Army personnel were deployed at the Supreme Court premises as hundreds of protesting students gathered.

Chief Justice Hassan told journalists at the apex court premises that he has decided to resign considering the safety of the judges of the Supreme Court, High Court and lower courts across the country amid the emerging situation, The Daily Star newspaper reported. Following the ouster of Prime Minister Hasina, who resigned and fled to India on Monday following the political turmoil in Bangladesh, 84-year-old Nobel laureate Muhammad Yunus was sworn in on Thursday as the head of an interim government.

His government is expected to announce fresh elections after bringing the law-and-order situation under control following the deadly anti-government demonstrations against the Hasina government that had led to massive violence, which is now abating. —PTI

Israeli strike on Gaza school shelter kills more than 100

DEIR AL-BALAH, 10 AUG

More than 100 Palestinians have been killed and dozens wounded in an Israeli strike on a school sheltering displaced people in Gaza City, according to Palestinian officials. Three Israeli bombs hit the al-Tabin school, located in Daraj district, Gaza's civil defence agency said of the attack on Saturday which it described as a "horrific massacre". The Israeli military acknowledged the strike, claiming it hit a Hamas command centre within the school. Women, children and the elderly are reported to be among the dead and the toll was expected to rise. The attack took place while people were performing morning prayers and triggered a fire that ripped through the building. Israeli forces have repeatedly attacked schools used as shelters, claiming they are command centres for Hamas to hide fighters and manufacture weapons.

Two Army personnel were killed and three others injured in a fierce gunfight with terrorists at a forest in a remote area in Jammu and Kashmir's Anantnag district on Saturday, officials said.

The incident occurred at Ahlan Gagarmandu forest in the Kokernag area of the south Kashmir district during a cordon and search operation that was launched following information about the presence of terrorists there, they said.

RUSSIA DENIES RECRUITING INDIANS FOR WAR

NEW DELHI, 10 AUG

The Russian Embassy in India on Saturday denied that Russia had engaged in any "public or obscure campaigns" in "fraudulent schemes" to recruit Indian citizens for military service in the country.

The Russian Embassy in Delhi in a statement said, "Since April this year, the Ministry of Defence of the Russian Federation has stopped the admission of citizens of a number of foreign countries, including India, to military service in the Russian Armed Forces." The Russian Embassy in India also condoled the deaths of Indian nationals while serving in the Russian Army in the war against Ukraine. The Russian mission said it has received multiple requests from the media to comment on the issue. Notably, several Indians were allegedly duped into fighting in Russia's war with Ukraine on the pretext of lucrative jobs. In July, Prime Minister Narendra Modi, during his meeting with Russian President Vladimir Putin in Moscow, took a strong stance on the issue of Indian nationals being recruited into the Russian Army. —ANI

India to introduce UPI service in Maldives

MALE, 10 AUG

India and Maldives have signed an agreement to introduce the Unified Payments Interface in the archipelago nation, which will have a "very positive" impact on its tourism sector, External Affairs Minister S Jaishankar has said.

The Memorandum of Understanding was signed on Friday during Jaishankar's three-day official visit to the Maldives.

Developed by the National Payments Corporation of India (NPCI), Unified Payment Interface (UPI) is an instant real-time payment system to facilitate inter-bank transactions through mobile phones.

Addressing a press conference with his Maldivian counterpart Moosa Zameer after their "productive discussions", Jaishankar said that India, through its UPI, has "revolutionised digital transactions".

Stressing that it has taken financial inclusion in India to new levels, he said "Today 40 per cent of the world's real-time digital payments take place in our country."

"We see this revolution, every day in our lives. I am pleased to note that with the signing of the MoU today, we have taken the first step towards bringing this digital innovation to Maldives," he said.

Tourism is the main source of economic activity for the Maldives, contributing nearly 30 per cent of the GDP and generating more than 60 per cent of foreign exchange.

Jaishankar's visit aims to reset the bilateral relationship with the Maldives and is the first high-level trip from India after the archipelago nation's pro-China president, Mohamed Muizzu, assumed office last year. —PTI

Neeraj will breach 90m mark soon, says ex-coach

DANIEL GEORGE
BENGALURU, 10 AUG

Javelin thrower Neeraj Chopra will breach the 90-metre mark soon as he is committed to the sport, said his former coach Subedar Kashinath Naik, who hails from Sirsi of Uttara Kannada district, on Saturday.

On Thursday, Chopra made history by becoming the first Indian track-and-field athlete to win two successive Olympic medals, securing a silver in men's javelin throw at the Paris Olympics.

"It's a proud moment for me as a coach, seeing Chopra create history," said Naik, who coached the Haryana athlete from January 2015 to October 2016 at Army Sports Institute in Pune. "He was unfortunate not to clinch gold in Paris, and narrowly missed the 90m mark. Yet, despite all his success, Chopra remains humble and grounded," Naik told Salar News from Pune.

Naik is the country's first Commonwealth Games javelin throw medallist, having won a Bronze in the 2010 edition in New Delhi.

"Chopra's confidence and dedication set him apart from other athletes," Naik said. "His self-belief has only grown since he first trained under me in 2016. When an athlete consistently throws near the 90m mark, their confidence is naturally high. Chopra has that, along with incredible arm speed, which gives him an edge."

Naik also praised Chopra's unwavering dedication to his training. "Many athletes become complacent after winning a medal, but not Chopra. He won't stop until he reaches that 90-meter milestone," he said.

Reflecting on the final where Chopra narrowly missed the gold to Pakistan's Arshad Nadeem, Naik commented, "Nadeem was the only real competition for Chopra's gold. But for all of us, Neeraj Chopra will always be the golden boy of Indian athletics."

Hopefully PM will find time to also visit Manipur, says Cong

NEW DELHI, 10 AUG

The Congress on Saturday said it is good that Prime Minister Narendra Modi is in Wayanad and hoped that he would "find the time and the inclination" to also visit Manipur "which has been experiencing pain" for more than 15 months now.

The Opposition party's remarks come on a day Modi is in Kerala's landslides-hit Wayanad.

"It is good that the non-biological PM is in Wayanad today. It was a devastating tragedy," Congress general secretary in-charge communications Jairam Ramesh said in a post in Hindi on X.

"After this, he (Modi) is scheduled to visit Ukraine to stop the war once again. Hopefully he will find the time and the inclination before then to also visit Manipur which has been experiencing so much pain, anguish, and agony for over 15 months now," Ramesh said.

TOP COURT'S VERDICT

Cong opposes suggestion on 'creamy layer'

NEW DELHI, 10 AUG

Asserting that the idea of denying reservation to SCs and STs on account of the creamy layer concept is "condemnable", Congress president Mallikarjun Kharge on Saturday said the government should have bought legislation in Parliament to nullify the Supreme Court judgement on the issue.

Earlier this month, a seven-judge Bench of the Supreme Court led by Chief Justice DY Chandrachud ruled in a 6:1 majority judgement that State governments were permitted to sub-classify communities within the SC list based on empirical data. Supreme Court judge Justice BR Gavai had said that States must evolve a policy for identifying the creamy layer even among theSC and ST and deny them the benefit of reservation.

"Who do you want to benefit by bringing a creamy layer? By bringing a creamy layer (concept) on one hand you are denying untouchables and giving to those who have enjoyed privileges for thousands of years. I condemn this," Kharge said.

This issue that has been raised by the seven judges shows that they have not thought about SCs and STs in a serious manner, he said. —PTI

2013 UPA REPLY SAYS

'There's no concept of national disasters in rules'

NEW DELHI, 10 AUG

Government sources on Saturday cited a 2013 reply in Parliament by a Congress-led UPA government minister to emphasise that no concept of "national disaster" exists under the rules of the central government.

The clarification came amid a demand, including from Leader of Opposition in the Lok Sabha Rahul Gandhi, that the landslide tragedy in Kerala's Wayanad be declared a national disaster.

The then minister of state for home and Congress MP from Kerala Mullappally Ramachandran had told the Lok Sabha in 2013 in a reply to a question that "there is no provision to declare a natural disaster as a national disaster", the sources noted.

According to sources, state government concerned is responsible for undertaking necessary rescue and relief measures PHOTO: ANI

The reply stated that the government of India adjudges a calamity of severe nature on case-to-case basis, taking into account its intensity and magnitude, level of relief assistance, capacity of the state government to tackle the problem, and alternatives and flexibility available within the plan to provide succour and relief etc.

The priority is immediate relief and response assistance in the context of a natural calamity. As such there is no fixed prescribed norms, he had said. However, for calamity of a "severe nature", additional assistance is also considered from the National Disaster Response Fund (NDRF) after following the established procedure, the reply stated. He said the state government concerned is responsible for undertaking necessary rescue and relief measures.

Ramachandran was replying to the question on whether the government has fixed any norms for declaring a calamity of severe nature striking the country as a "national calamity". —PTI

Himachal ends free water rule

HIGHER-INCOME RURAL HOUSEHOLDSSHIMLA, 10 AUG

All water consumers in rural areas of Himachal Pradesh will no longer enjoy the facility of free water supply as the domestic consumers with annual income above Rs 50,000 will have to pay Rs 100 per month.

Besides, the commercial establishments will be billed according to kilolitre.

The State Cabinet, which took the decision to increase the revenue and curtail the subsidies on Thursday, also decided to provide metered water supply to commercial establishments like hotels and home-stays and bill them on commercial rates.

However, certain underprivileged sections including widows, destitute, 'ekal nari' (single woman), handicapped and other weaker sections will continue to get water free of cost.

During the past few years, hotels and home-stays have mushroomed in rural areas and these are enjoying free water facilities while the hotels in urban areas are being supplied water and electricity at commercial rates. "The Jan Shakti Department, which is operating about 10,000 water supply schemes is suffering revenue loss of about Rs 800 crore due to supply of free water," said an official. —PTI

PR Sreejesh: The man who changed Indian hockey

The moment India won a bronze medal in hockey at Paris Olympics, the players burst into wild celebrations.

But PR Sreejesh quietly walked to one end of the field and bowed down in front of the goalpost - his home for almost two decades.

He will miss that home, but India will miss him even more. The goalkeeper, who played his last international match on Thursday, leaves an illustrious legacy behind him.

The "Wall of India", as he is popularly known, played a crucial role in India's podium finish. His team were up 2-1 and Spain were fighting hard for an equaliser but Sreejesh thwarted their attempts, especially in the dying minutes of the match.

The instincts and the tactful dives he is known for were on full display. His impact on the game can be understood from the fact that the Spaniards earned nine penalty corners, but couldn't convert any. Sreejesh and his defence team put their bodies on the line to protect their lead until the end.

The former Indian captain can also be credited with bringing India into contention for a medal. The knock-out match against Great Britain went into a penalty shootout and once again it was down to the Wall to protect his team - he did exactly that with two masterful saves.

He was in tears after India lost the semi-final to Germany as he knew the elusive gold medal was out of his grasp, but he quickly turned his attention to the bronze medal match. On Thursday, he was crying again – but this time in joy.

Indians cried with him and social media was flooded with tributes to the man who carried the country's hopes and dreams for nearly two decades.

India is known to be cricket crazy and players from other sports often don't get the same attention, fame or money. And for a hockey goalkeeper, it's even harder to be acknowledged.

India's goalkeeper PR Sreejesh played a crucial role in India's podium finish in Paris Olympics

"It's difficult to love a goalkeeper. He is invisible, and is only in the limelight when he makes a blunder. When I was young, I didn't know who India's goalkeeper was then," he told the Indian Express in 2021.

Sreejesh never chased attention or stardom; he just liked to get on with the job. It was this attitude that kept him going despite a bitter-sweet debut.

He had already made waves in the junior circuit with his quick reflexes and ability to judge a ball's trajectory in nano seconds.

But his debut in the senior team in 2006 at the South Asian Games didn't go that well. He performed well in the tournament but missed a crucial save in the final against India's arch-rival Pakistan. The criticism that followed was a steep learning curve for him.

The next few years were tough as he didn't get a permanent place in the team. Indian hockey also went through a bad phase during this period, with the team failing to even qualify for the Beijing Olympics in 2008.

But Sreejesh continued to work hard on his skills and his moment of redemption came in 2011. It was the final of the Champions Trophy and Pakistan was once again the opposing side.

Despite the team's dismal performance, the custodian of the Indian goalpost continued to perform well. His next shining moment came when he was again faced with Pakistan in the 2014 Asian Games final. He saved two penalties to end India's 16-year gold medal drought at the Games.

But if there is one moment that sums up his character, grit and determination, it has to be the bronze medal match against Holland in the Hockey World League in 2015.

He was badly injured, his thighs were covered in ice packs, his thumb was close to broken and his shoulder was covered in protective surgical tapes. He could barely walk the night before the match.

He joked that he looked like a mummy as he took his position at the goalpost. But behind all the pain and the humour was a resolve to win a medal for India in a major international tournament after more than three decades. His stunning saves in the penalty shootout helped India win the match against a superior team.

But he never let success get to his head, remaining humble and approachable and living his life without the trappings of glamour usually associated with sport stars. This endeared him to his teammates and also Indians at large.

An injury in 2017 threatened to end his career. Defying all odds, he made a comeback after two surgeries and several months of rehabilitation.

But his performance took time to peak and critics said his famed reflexes had slowed down. Younger goalkeepers were also making a claim for his spot. But he stayed away from the noise and continued to work hard.

He was once again ready to end another drought - a 41-year wait for a hockey medal at the Olympics. He helped India win a bronze medal at the 2020 Tokyo Olympics with his astute understanding of the game.

He was able to ride through many storms in his career largely due to his upbringing.

Sreejesh was born into a farming family in the southern state of Kerala.

He loved sports but didn't enjoy running as much. So after trying out other sports and different playing positions in hockey, he chose goalkeeping as it didn't involve much running.

He did well at the state level and was called for the national trials in Delhi in 2003.

The 15-year-old arrived in the Indian capital after a train journey of more than 48 hours. He spoke little Hindi – the language spoken by most players at the camp.

Staying with mostly Hindi-speaking boys in the hostel, he embraced the challenge and learnt the language – including some pretty colourful words that were often heard during tense matches in later years.

When asked about his legacy, he prefers not to talk about his achievements.

"And for the youngsters and kids, when they pad up and step on to the hockey field, they should feel I want to become a keeper like Sreejesh." —BBC News

B'desh: Big challenges ahead for Md Yunus

Bangladesh was thrust into the global spotlight this week after large-scale, violent unrest forced the country's longtime premier, Sheikh Hasina, to quit and flee to neighboring India.

The mass protests began as a student movement against quotas in government jobs but then escalated into a broader anti-government uprising.

The quota scheme reserved over half of well-paid and secure government jobs for specific groups. Many protesters saw it as discriminatory and unfair, particularly at a time when Bangladesh is facing economic stress.

"The unemployment issue is the root cause of the student movement," he added.

Not enough jobs for the youth

During Hasina's 15-year rule, Bangladesh made some economic progress, building big-ticket projects such as highways, rail lines and ports, as well as expanding the electric grid.

The country's garment industry also became one of the world's most competitive.

But the $450-billion (₹412-billion) economy has struggled since the COVID-19 pandemic. Shrinking foreign exchange reserves even pushed the government to seek a multibillion-dollar loan from the International Monetary Fund.

Even though the South Asian country's gross domestic product is currently growing at over 5% annually, it has struggled to create enough, decent-paying jobs for its vast youth population.

Nearly half of Bangladesh's 170 million people are aged under 30. While this is generally seen as a demographic dividend, it could turn into a "demographic curse" if these people can't find productive employment, said Mansur.

Joblessness among people aged 15 to 24 in the country was a high 15.7% in 2023, according to the International Labor Organization.

At the same time, hundreds of thousands of young new graduates are entering the labor market every year. "But they are not employable, given the extremely poor quality of education and the lack of required skills," said Mansur, pointing out that the youth "felt deprived, cheated upon and that they will never get employed."

Soaring prices hit people hard

Against this backdrop, one of the big tasks facing the interim government led by Nobel laureate Muhammad Yunus, which was sworn in on Thursday, will be to facilitate job growth.

But that's not the only challenge. Bangladesh has seen persistently high inflation in recent years, with the rate hovering at nearly 10 per cent in 2023.

Fahmida Khatun, head of research at the Center for Policy Dialogue think tank in Dhaka, told DW that the economic situation in Bangladesh has been deteriorating for the past couple of years.

She pointed to high inflationary pressure worldwide since the COVID-19 pandemic and the start of Russia's war against Ukraine. "But over the past two years, almost all countries have managed to bring their inflation down, except Bangladesh," she said.

Khatun blamed the situation on the central bank's inability to take appropriate measures to tackle the problem.

"They were stuck up on policies which are not beneficial for the country, but rather only for a certain group of people," she said, accusing Hasina and her Awami League party of compromising the independence of all the country's regulatory bodies.

Can Yunus push through structural reforms?

In response to the turmoil that ensued after Hasina's dramatic exit, many shops and factories shut their doors this week.

That included factories in the textile sector, which is crucial to Bangladesh's economy. The country earns over $46 billion annually by exporting clothes abroad, with most of them destined for Europe and the US. More than 4 million workers, mostly women, are employed across some 4,000 factories, which supply many of the world's top brands, including Levi's, Zara and H&M.

"From an economic perspective, getting factories up and running again will be a priority," Gareth Leather and Shilan Shah, economists at London-based Capital Economics, said in a research note this week.

They warned that garment makers could shift their operations elsewhere if authorities failed to get a grip over the situation. "But provided peace and stability is restored to the streets soon, we suspect that the long-term impact on the sector will be relatively small."

On Friday, the interim administration deployed the army in the industrial districts to help reopen and ease operations of the clothing factories, the German dpa news agency reported, citing Shovon Islam, one of the directors of Bangladesh Garments Manufacturers and Exporters Association.

Mansur said the country needs fundamental reforms to address the structural challenges facing the economy. —DW News

Muslims in the UK question sense of belonging after riots

On Friday, a holy day for Muslims, fewer women are attending prayers at their local mosques across the United Kingdom. Those who dare out are exchanging safety tips. Move in groups, avoid crowds, keep your car windows closed.

Here in Liverpool, the sun is bright and the school summer holidays are in full swing. But it is one of the English cities where far-right race riots exploded this week. There is an eerie mood. There are hardly any children on the streets. The gates of a historic church are locked.

"I'm quite a strong person, and yet I feel fear, you know? I feel scared," said Saba Ahmed, a resident who works for a multicultural hub that serves local communities.

"It just doesn't feel right."

Fears spread over the city as Islamophobic and racist riots took place in the wake of the killing of three young girls in Southport, less than one hour's drive from here.

Rumours on social media falsely claimed that the suspect was a Muslim and an asylum seeker. The disinformation, since neither is true, fuelled the worst bout of violence to hit the nation in years.

The riots, which took place in dozens of areas, have been extinguished thanks to the thousands of antiracism protesters who outnumbered them in a show of solidarity with those affected. Police have handed heavy sentences to rioters, which has also dissuaded others from joining in.

Observers have blamed politicians and some sections of the media for railing against immigration while demonising Muslims and asylum seekers.

"After the 'War on Terror', the political conversation and legislation around counterterrorism was about targeting Muslim communities as a threat to national security," said Shabna Begum, head of Runnymede Trust, a race equality and civil rights think tank.

"And now they have been identified as a cultural threat to British democracy based on ages-old tropes on the Muslim civilisation being barbaric."

Over the years, mainstream politics and some media soaked up that narrative which paved the way for the "normalisation of an Islamophobic rhetoric" in the UK and therefore the dehumanisation of Muslims, she explained.

As political attention shifted towards a rise in undocumented migrants crossing the Channel, many say brown and Black asylum seekers have been thrown into the same category.

Muslims, refugees and non-White people were attacked at random in the riots.

According to Chris Allen, an associate professor of criminology at the University of Leicester, both Labour and the Conservatives have contributed to the vilification of Muslims, clearing the way for the general populace to slur minority groups.

"This is partly the legacy of the Brexit Leave campaign's toxic rhetoric on popular views about immigration that continued right up to the recent general election," Allen said, adding that politicians have failed to call out Islamophobia when they see it.

On a recent popular morning television show, Labour politician Zahra Sultana was asked why identifying Islamophobia and the racialised nature of many attacks was important in tackling racism. As she tried to answer, she was interrupted by the panel, which many on social media said exemplified an attempt to silence discussions on racism.

"We need to call this racism, and we need to call this Islamophobic, because if we don't, we fail to address what is going on. Language is really important," Sultana said on the programme.

During Israel's continuing war on Gaza, anti-Muslim hate crimes have increased – according to TellMAMA, such incidents tripled in the first four months of the conflict. Research by the Institute for Strategic Dialogue also shows a sharp rise in anti-Muslim content across online platforms during the same period. Similarly, UK groups that monitor anti-Jewish hate crimes have reported a rise during the war.

According to Imam Adam Kelwick, the missing element is dialogue.

Standing outside Liverpool's Abdullah Quilliam mosque, he has just returned from an unusual meeting over coffee.

He had sat across the table from a far-right protester who was among the dozens who rallied outside the mosque recently.

At the time, Kelwick confronted the situation by crossing police lines and offering burgers and chips to the angry crowd. He hugged protesters and promised more dialogue.

"What happens when you come together is that you start talking and listening. You start to find out that many of the concerns that the other side has are also your concerns," said Adam. "All it takes is a human interaction."

He plans to open the mosque's gates on Saturday to engage in more discussions with members of the far right.

But as he attempts to talk, others need time to heal.

"There was a feeling that we were so embedded in the community – all the progress of the past years seemed to have dashed in the course of one evening," said Tawhid Islam, a member and trustee of the Liverpool Region Mosque Network. "A seed of doubt has now been planted and people ask themselves, 'Am I part of this community if I am not White?'" —Courtesy, Al Jazeera

German tourists accused of defacing US park

BERLIN, 10 AUG

Three German tourists face possible financial penalties after being accused of defacing property at Joshua Tree National Park in California. Park authorities accused the trio of firing paintballs at signs, bathrooms and dumpsters throughout the park. Meanwhile, they said the damage was discovered on Sunday after a park ranger found "fresh yellow paintball splatter on structures and signs" during a campground patrol. Park rangers then questioned the tourists, who admitted that they had fired paintballs in the park with a compressed paintball gun and slingshots, authorities said. Vandalism of a US national park carries a maximum penalty of USD 5,000, as well as the possibility of a prison sentence for up to six months, according to the National Park Service (NPS). —BBC News

Attack targeted Hamas command centre within the school

DEIR AL-BALAH, 10 AUG

More than 100 Palestinians have been killed and dozens wounded in an Israeli strike on a school sheltering displaced people in Gaza City, according to Palestinian officials.

Three Israeli bombs hit the al-Tabin school, located in Daraj district, Gaza's civil defence agency said of the attack on Saturday which it described as a "horrific massacre".

The Israeli military acknowledged the strike, claiming it hit a Hamas command centre within the school. Hamas denied that.Women, children and the elderly are reported to be among the dead and the toll was expected to rise. The attack took place while people were performing morning prayers and triggered a fire that ripped through the building.

Reporting from Khan Younis in southern Gaza, Al Jazeera's Hani Mahmoud said it was a "deliberate" attack on civilians but also "a violation of people's religious rites as they were in a time considered sacred".

Ismail al-Thawabta, the head of Gaza's Government Media Office, told Al Jazeera that the Israeli army used three bombs weighing 907kg each in its attack.

He said Israel was aware of the presence of displaced people inside the school.

The Israeli military said its air forces struck a "command and control centre" that "served as a hideout for Hamas terrorists and commanders". Without providing evidence, the Israeli military said in a separate statement that it had intelligence indicating there were 20 Hamas and Islamic Jihad fighters, including senior commanders, operating from the school.

It also said that the civilian casualty figures given by Palestinian authorities was "exaggerated".

Israeli forces have repeatedly attacked schools used as shelters, claiming they are command centres for Hamas, the Palestinian group that governs Gaza, to hide fighters and manufacture weapons.

Three missiles ripped through the school and the mosque inside, where about 6,000 displaced people were taking shelter from the war, said Mahmoud Bassal, a spokesperson for the Civil Defence first responders who operate under the Hamas-run local government. Saturday's attack was the fourth such incident in a week. Hamas has denied Israeli accusations that it operates from civilian facilities such as schools and hospitals. Palestinian journalist Hossam Shabat reported that rescue teams were unable to help those trapped by the flames as the Israeli military cut water access to the area.

US announces $125M security assistance package for Ukraine

WASHINGTON DC, 10 AUG

The US is sending Ukraine an additional USD 125 million in weapons to assist in its military operations against Russia, including much-needed air defence capabilities, radars to detect and counter enemy artillery and anti-tank weapons, the White House announced Friday.

The latest package comes as Ukraine has launched its largest ground offensive on Russian soil since the war began in February 2022. The offensive in the Kursk region has prompted Moscow to declare an emergency and send reinforcements there.

National security spokesman John Kirby said Ukraine's use of US -provided weapons in the offensive was in line with administration policies. The Biden administration has approved their use in cross-border counterstrikes against Russia but not against targets deeper inside Russia, although the specific distances are not clear.

The weapons in this latest aid package will be drawn from existing US stocks and will include Stinger missiles, 155mm and 105mm artillery ammunition, High Mobility Artillery Rocket Systems (HIMARS) ammunition and vehicles. It brings the total amount of US aid to Ukraine since 2022 to USD 55.6 billion.

July saw the heaviest civilian casualties in Ukraine since October 2022. Conflict-related violence killed at least 219 civilians and injured 1,018 in July, the mission said.

Russia on Saturday announced what it called a counterterrorism operation to increase security in the border region where an incursion this week by Ukrainian forces caught Russian troops off-guard.

The Russian Defence Ministry said that the army has conducted airstrikes against Ukrainian forces, including using a thermobaric bomb that both causes a blast wave and creates a vacuum that suffocates its targets. —AP

North Korea not to seek help for flood victims

SEOUL, 10 AUG

North Korea will not seek outside help to recover from floods that devastated areas near the country's border with China, leader Kim Jong Un said as he ordered officials to bring thousands of displaced residents to the capital to provide them better care.

Kim said it would take about two to three months to rebuild homes and stabilise the areas affected by floods. Until then, his government plans to accommodate some 15,400 people — a group that includes mothers, children, older adults and disabled soldiers — at facilities in Pyongyang, North Korea's official Korean Central News Agency (KCNA) said Saturday.

KCNA said Kim made the comments during a two-day trip to northwestern town of Uiju through Friday to meet flood victims and discuss recovery efforts. The agency gave Kim its typical effusive praise, saying the visit showed his "sacred leadership" and "warm love and ennobling spirit of making devoted service for the people."

Time for truce: Kamala to pro-Palestine activists

ARIZONA, 10 AUG

United States Democratic presidential candidate Kamala Harris has told pro-Palestine protesters who interrupted her campaign rally in Arizona that now is the time for a ceasefire deal in Israel's war on Gaza.

The demonstrators shouted, "Free, free Palestine" as Harris spoke to an estimated 15,000 people in the city of Glendale in Arizona, one of the states she's vying to win to defeat her Republican opponent Donald Trump.

The latest incident highlights the balancing act she has to make to address a segment of her party's constituency opposed to Israel's war in Gaza while avoiding alienating the general electorate sympathetic to Israel.

On Wednesday, when Harris was heckled during a rally in Michigan, she appeared to get frustrated after pro-Palestine protesters repeatedly interrupted her speech as they shouted, "Kamala, Kamala you can't hide, we won't vote for genocide."

Harris's response was blunt. "You know what, if you want Donald Trump to win, then say that. Otherwise, I'm speaking." While a video clip of that Michigan event went viral, some critics said that Harris failed to address the question about the ceasefire and appeared dismissive of the young protesters present.

In July, when Harris met Israeli Prime Minister Benjamin Netanyahu in Washington, DC, the vice president had said that her commitment to Israel's existence and security was "unwavering", but that she "will not be silent" in the face of the "tragedies" in Gaza.

TO INFLUENCE VOTERS

Iran targeting US polls, says Microsoft

NEW YORK, 10 AUG

Iran is accelerating online activity that appears intended to influence the US election, in one case targeting a presidential campaign with an email phishing attack, Microsoft said Friday.

The findings in Microsoft's newest threat intelligence report show how Iran, which has been active in recent US elections, is evolving its tactics for another election that's likely to have global implications. The report goes a step beyond anything US intelligence officials have disclosed, giving specific examples of Iranian groups and the actions they have taken so far. Iran's United Nations mission denied it had plans to interfere or launch cyberattacks in the US Presidential election.

The report identified four examples of Iranian activity that the company expects to increase as November's election draws closer PHOTO: PTI

Microsoft's report identified four examples of recent Iranian activity that the company expects to increase as November's election draws closer.

First, a group linked to Iran's Revolutionary Guard in June targeted a high-ranking US presidential campaign official with a phishing email, a form of cyberattack often used to gather sensitive information, according to the report, which didn't identify which campaign was targeted. The group concealed the email's origins by sending it from the hacked email account of a former senior adviser, Microsoft said.

Days later, the Iranian group tried to log into an account that belonged to a former presidential candidate, but wasn't successful, Microsoft's report said. The company notified those who were targeted.

A third example Microsoft cited that Iranian groups are impersonating US activists, potentially laying the groundwork for influence operations closer to the election.

Finally, another Iranian group in May compromised an account owned by a government employee in a swing state, the report said. It was unclear whether that cyberattack was related to election interference efforts. —AP

Protest outside UN HQ over attacks on Bangladesh Hindus

NEW YORK/ DHAKA, 10 AUG

A large crowd gathered outside the United Nations headquarters on Saturday, demanding protection for Hindus and other minorities in Bangladesh.

HinduACTion, a Washington-based NGO, said that people from all walks of life showed up spontaneously.

In a post on X, HinduACTion said, "Protests outside the @UN ongoing- calling for saving the Hindus and the minorities in #Bangladesh. Very impressive to see people from all walks of life show up spontaneously on a work day. @DcWalaDesi @nytimes @nypost #All_Eyes_On_Bangladesh #SaveBangladeshiHindus"

Members of minority communities in Bangladesh faced at least 205 incidents of attacks in 52 districts since the fall of the Sheikh Hasina-led government on 5 August, according to two Hindu organisations in the violence-hit nation.

The Bangladesh Hindu Buddhist Christian Unity Council and the Bangladesh Puja Udjapan Parishad on Friday presented the data in an open letter to 84-year-old Nobel laureate Muhammad Yunus, who was sworn in as the head of an interim government. Meanwhile, a group of local Madrasa students removed the nameplate of the "Father of the Nation Bangabandhu Sheikh Mujibur Rahman Expressway", commonly known as the Dhaka-Mawa Expressway in Bangladesh's Munshiganj, the Dailystar reported.

Instead, they replaced it with a banner reading "Father of the Nation Hazrat Ibrahim (AS) Expressway."

American Congressman Raja Krishnamoorthi urged the Secretary of State Tony Blinken to engage directly with the interim government to end this outbreak of violence, including the targeting of Hindus, and to bring those responsible to justice.

In his letter dated 8 August, a copy of which was released to the press on Friday, Krishnamoorthi said credible eyewitness reports of the anti-Hindu attacks in the New York Times, Times of India, BBC, and Reuters among other media outlets, demonstrate the scale of the attacks. —ANI/PTI

Chinese jets endangered patrol plane: Philippines

MANILA, 10 AUG

The Philippine military chief condemned on Saturday what he said was the provocative actions of two Chinese air force aircraft that executed a dangerous manoeuver and dropped flares in the path of a Philippine air force plane on routine patrol in the South China Sea.

All those aboard the Philippine air force NC-212i light transport plane were unharmed and returned safely to Clark Air Base north of Manila after Thursday morning's incident over the Scarborough Shoal, Gen Romeo Brawner said without providing other details.

There was no immediate reaction from Chinese officials in Manila or Beijing, which dispute sovereign control over the rich fishing atoll.

The incident has been reported to Manila's Department of Foreign Affairs, which has filed numerous diplomatic protests against China's increasingly aggressive actions in the disputed waters.

Aside from China and the Philippines, Brunei, Malaysia, Vietnam and Thailand have overlapping territorial claims in the busy sea passage, a key global trade and security route, but hostilities have particularly flared since last year between Chinese and Philippine coast guard and navy forces in the Scarborough and another hotly disputed atoll, the Second Thomas Shoal.

The United States has repeatedly warned that it's obligated to defend the Philippines, its oldest treaty ally in Asia, if Filipino forces, ships and aircraft come under an armed attack, including in the South China Sea. —AP

Textile sector hit after Bangladesh crisis: FM

She expresses hope that things will settle down soon

NEW DELHI, 10 AUG

The Indian garment and knitted fabric sector is witnessing a bit of uncertainty due to the Bangladesh crisis, Finance Minister Nirmala Sitharaman said on Saturday, expressing hope that the interim government there will settle things "sooner rather than later."

Interacting with the media on the sidelines of customary post Budget address to the central board of Reserve Bank of India, she said efforts are being taken to ensure that borders with the neighbouring country are safe.

With regard to Indian investments, she said, the textile industry particularly from Tamil Nadu has made investments there in good faith and they have done well having gone there.

"The exports from Bangladesh also increased because of the duty and quota liberal approach that we have towards low-income countries. They (Indian garment industry based in Bangladesh) could even export to India."

Particularly, she said, the garment and knitted fabric sector is seeing a bit of uncertainty because of the crisis in the neighbouring country.

Earlier this week, Bangladesh plunged into a political crisis when Sheikh Hasina resigned as the Prime Minister and fled the country. Soon after Parliament was dissolved leading to the creation of an interim government.

FM ATTENDS RBI BOARD OF DIRECTORS MEETING

NEW DELHI, 10 AUG

Union Finance Minister Nirmala Sitharaman on Saturday attended a meeting of members of the Central Board of Directors of Reserve Bank of India (RBI) here in the national capital.

The meeting as held after the Union Budget 2024-25 and days after the Lok Sabha passed the finance bill, with a few amendments moved by the government in the parliament. Sitharaman also asked banks to come up with innovative and attractive schemes to mobilise deposits.

Addressing the media after the board meeting of the Reserve Bank of India, she said that deposits and lending are the two wheels of a cart and "deposit is moving slowly." The banks, she stressed, need to focus on core banking business which is mobilising deposits and lending to those who need funds.

In order to overcome the mismatch between deposits and lending, Sitharaman asked banks to come up with "innovative and attractive" deposit schemes to mobilise funds from the people.

RBI Governor Shaktikanta Das said that interest rates are deregulated and often banks raise deposit rates to attract funds. Das while unveiling the bi-monthly monetary policy earlier in the week, also had expressed concern of deposit-lending mismatch in the banking sector. —ANI/ PTI

BOOST FOR HORTICULTURE SECTOR

Cabinet approves Rs 1.77cr Clean Plant Programme

NEW DELHI, 10 AUG

The Union Cabinet, chaired by Prime Minister Narendra Modi, on Friday approved the Clean Plant Programme (CPP) with an outlay of Rs 1,766 crore to revolutionize India's horticulture sector.

The programme, proposed by the Ministry of Agriculture and Farmers Welfare, aims to enhance the quality and productivity of fruit crops across the nation. It was earlier announced in the Budget speech by finance minister in February 2023.

Briefing the media after the meeting, Union Minister Ashwini Vaishnaw said that the CPP will address virus infections in horticultural crops, affecting both productivity and quality.

Key components of the programme include: establishment of nine world-class Clean Plant Centres (CPCs) across India, equipped with advanced diagnostic therapeutics and tissue culture labs; and implementation of a robust certification system under the Seeds Act 1966.

It also includes infrastructure support to large-scale nurseries for efficient multiplication of clean planting material.

The CPP is expected to benefit farmers, nurseries, consumers, and boost exports. It will provide farmers access to virus-free, high-quality planting material, leading to increased crop yields and improved income opportunities.

The programme will prioritise affordable access to clean plant material for all farmers, regardless of their landholding size or socioeconomic status.

It will also actively engage women farmers in its planning and implementation. The initiative aligns with Mission LiFE and the One Health initiatives, promoting sustainable and eco-friendly agricultural practices while reducing dependence on imported planting materials, it added. —PTI

DIVERSIFY ETHANOL PRODUCTION: SHAH URGES SUGAR MILLS

NEW DELHI, 10 AUG

Cooperation Minister Amit Shah on Saturday called on sugar mills to explore alternatives to sugarcane for ethanol production, pushing for a multi-dimensional approach to biofuel manufacturing.

Speaking at an event organized by the National Federation of Cooperative Sugar Factories (NFCSF), Shah said India would achieve its 20 per cent ethanol blending target by 2025-26, ahead of the original 2030 deadline.

The minister highlighted that the government's ethanol blending programme has helped reduce the country's crude oil import bill and address environmental concerns.

"You need to be futuristic and look at opportunities and expand. Ethanol can be made from multiple sources," Shah said, urging cooperative sugar mills to shed their "orthodox" approach and explore alternative feedstocks such as maize and bamboo. "We have a habit of working inefficiently and seeking help from the government.

The government will be willing to help more if you work efficiently. ....Make a dynamic Federation, not a demand-driven Federation," he added. Shah said about 1,000 crore litres of ethanol is required for blending, and the necessary infrastructure to achieve this target is in place.

He emphasised the need for sugar mills to modernise and adopt new technologies, citing potential export opportunities once the Global Biofuels Alliance is established.

Shah also advised NFCSF to hire professionals to guide loss-making cooperatives and set a target of increasing mills' annual turnover by 25 per cent in two years. —PTI

PARIS, 10 AUG

To gain something, Aman Sehrawat firstly needed to lose something.

When the scales of the weighing machine showed 61.5 kg on Thursday after his semi-final defeat to eventual champion Rei Higuchi, Aman had a bigger job at hand before taking the mat for the bronze medal play-off.

India's youngest Olympic bronze medal winning grappler had to shed 4.5 kilograms of bodyweight in a stipulated time of 10 hours before mandatory second day weigh-in to qualify for the 57 kg bout.

By the time Aman was up on the weighing machine on second morning, he along with his coaches Jagmander Singh and Virender Dahiya had accomplished the mission -- reduced 4.6 kgs to be eligible for the fight at 56.9 kg.

It was case being exactly 100 gram less than critical limit. If 100 gram became tragedy for Vinesh Phogat, it was a case of relief for Aman.

On Thursday, Aman had lost his semifinal bout against Japan's Rei Higuchi around 6:30 pm. There was no time to waste. The 'mission' began with a one-and-a-half-hour mat session during which the two senior coaches engaged him in standing wrestling and it was followed by a one-hour hot-bath session.

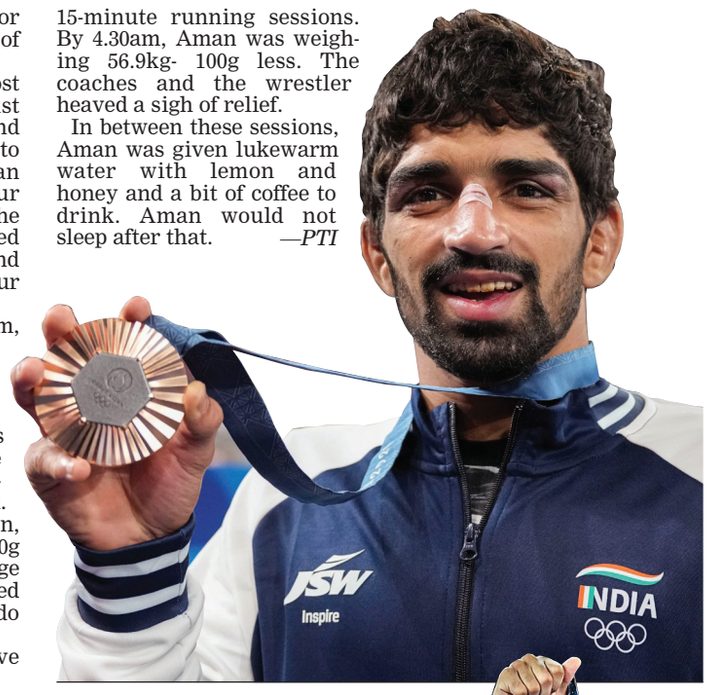

At 12.30 they hit the gym, where Aman had a non-stop one-hour run on the treadmill.

The sweating would help in cutting weight. He was then given a 30-minute break, followed by five sessions of 5-minute sauna bath.

By the end of the last session, Aman was still weighing 900g more. He was given a massage and then the coaches asked the Chhtrasal trainee to do light jogging.

It was followed by five 15-minute running sessions. By 4.30am, Aman was weighing 56.9kg- 100g less. The coaches and the wrestler heaved a sigh of relief.

In between these sessions, Aman was given lukewarm water with lemon and honey and a bit of coffee to drink. Aman would not sleep after that. —PTI

Neeraj Chopra, Nadeem look to popularise javelin

PARIS, 10 AUG

With their "healthy competition" on the field and "strong friendship" off it, javelin superstars Neeraj Chopra and Arshad Nadeem have set out to fulfil their common mission of inspiring youngsters of India and Pakistan and getting them hooked on the sport.

Nadeem won the men's javelin gold in the ongoing Olympics with a stunning 92.97m throw -- which was also an Olympic record -- while Chopra, who was defending his title, took the silver with a season's best effort of 89.45m.

"It's already grown a lot. We're already seeing more talented javelin throwers in India. The same is happening in Pakistan," Chopra said when asked whether their success will lead to a boom in athletics in both India and Pakistan. He was referring to last year's Asian Games in Hangzhou, China, where he had won a gold. Asked whether the India-Pakistan rivalry will switch from cricket to javelin, Chopra said, "That'll be possible if we had more competitions like in cricket. We have two major competitions: the Olympics every four years and the World Championships every two years.

"If we had more competitions, more people would watch, like the Diamond League and some others," said the 26-year-old from Khandra village near Panipat.

The 27-year-old Nadeem also spoke about the significance of Pakistan and India winning gold and silver in Paris Olympics. "Our friendship is really strong, and I wish it continues for a long time."

PARIS, 10 AUG

Algerian boxer Imane Khelif has won a gold medal Friday at the Paris Olympics, emerging a champion from a tumultuous run at the Games where she endured intense scrutiny in the ring and online abuse from around the world over misconceptions about her womanhood.

Khelif beat Yang Liu of China 5:0 in the final of the women's welterweight division, wrapping up the best series of fights of her boxing career with a victory at Roland Garros, where crowds chanted her name, waved Algerian flags and roared every time she landed a punch.

After her unanimous win, Khelif jumped into her coaches' arms, one of them putting her on his shoulders and carrying her in a victory lap as she pumped her fists and grabbed an Algerian flag from the crowd.

"For eight years, this has been my dream, and I'm now the Olympic champion and gold medalist," Khelif said through an interpreter. Asked about the scrutiny, she told reporters: "That also gives my success a special taste because of those attacks."

The gold medal fight was the culmination of Khelif's nine-day run through an Olympic tournament that began bizarrely. —AP

Wrestler Hooda loses in 76kg Quarterfinals

PARIS, 10 AUG

Indian wrestler Reetika Hooda put up a stout defence against top seed Aiperi Medet Kyzy before losing the women's 76kg quarterfinal bout, which turned into an intense power struggle at the Paris Olympics here on Saturday.

Up against the Asian Games champion and World Championship silver medallist, Reetika managed to restrict her formidable rival to standing wrestling but eventually lost the bout on criteria after it ended 1-1. If the two wrestlers end with the same score, the one who scores the last point is declared winner.

The 21-year old Reetika had become India's female U23 world champion last year. A little more experience of battling quality senior wrestlers would have helped her get an upset win. "You can't win bouts by just defence," India coach Virender Dahiya fumed.

"Yes, she fought well but what's the point if your strong defence does not get you win. Reetika did not let her attack but she herself did not attack. You lose by one point, or 10 points, you lose. Reetika could have won this bout," he said. —PTI

Refugee breaker disqualified for wearing 'Free Afghan Women' cape

PARIS, 10 AUG

Refugee breaker Manizha Talash, or "b-girl Talash," was disqualified from the first-ever Olympic breaking competition on Friday, after she wore a cape that said "Free Afghan Women" during her pre-qualifier battle against India Sardjoe — known as "b-girl India."

The 21-year-old, originally from Afghanistan and representing the Olympic Refugee, team lost in the pre-qualifier battle against Sardjoe, and would not have advanced even if she hadn't been disqualified.

Political statements and slogans are banned on the field of play and on podiums at the Olympics. World DanceSport Federation, the governing body for breaking at the Olympics, issued a statement. Talash sought asylum in Spain after fleeing Taliban rule in her home country in 2021. "I'm here because I want to reach my dream.

The one-off pre-qualifier battle between Talash and Sardjoe was added in May, when Talash was included in the Olympic roster after the b-girl from Afghanistan missed registration for qualifying events. The International Olympic Committee's executive board invited her to participate after learning of her efforts to defy the strict rule of the Taliban in her home country. —AP

Cringy moves raise questions about break dancing contest

PARIS, 10 AUG

From the Australian b-girl with the meme-worthy "kangaroo" dance move to the silver-medal winning Lithuanian in a durag, breaking's Olympic debut had a few moments that raised questions from viewers about whether the essence of the hip-hop art form was captured at the Paris Games.

Rachael Gunn, 36, a PhD holder, from Australia achieved internet fame, but not necessarily for Olympic-level skill. Competing against some b-girls half her age, she was swept out of the round-robin stage without earning a single point, and her unconventional moves landed flat while failing to match the skill level of her foes. In one move while laying on her side, she reached for her toes, flipped over and did it again in a move dubbed "the kangaroo."

"I was never going to beat these girls on what they do best — their power moves. What I bring is creativity," said Gunn.

Many Black viewers, in particular, called out Lithuania's silver medalist b-girl Nicka, (legally named Dominika Banevic) for donning a durag during each of her battles.

Durags, once worn by enslaved Africans to tie up their hair for work, are still worn by Black people to protect and style their hair. They became a fashionable symbol of Black pride in between1960 and 2000. But when worn by those who aren't Black, durags can be seen as cultural appropriation. Banevic is white. —AP

Hunreds of fans lined up to garland and cheer for them as members of the Indian men's hockey team, including captain Harmanpreet Singh, touched down in the national capital on Saturday after fetching a second successive Olympic bronze medal in Paris.

The Indian team extended its record overall Olympic medal haul in the sport to 13 with a 2-1 victory over Spain in the third place match in Paris.

However, not all members of the winning team made their way back home as a few vital cogs remained in the French capital for the closing ceremony on Sunday.

Celebrated goalkeeper PR Sreejesh, who retired at the end of India's campaign, is the joint flag-bearer for the ceremony along with double-medallist Manu Bhaker. He remained in Paris along with Amit Rohidas, Raj Kumar Pal, Abhishek, Sukhjeet Singh and Sanjay. This batch is slated to return after the closing ceremony.

Harmanpreet and team members were greeted with garlands and celebratory dhol as they made their way out of the arrivals at the Indira Gandhi International airport in the morning.

"We have received all the support, and all our requirements were fulfilled. I really want to thank... We are very happy and proud," Harmanpreet, who scored a brace in the medal match, told the media on his arrival.

"It is a big achievement for hockey. The love that is being showered upon hockey doubles our responsibility. We will also try that whenever we enter the field, we comeback with a medal," he said. —PTI

> Sreejesh is the best person, a legend, and India calls him the 'Great Wall', amazing, that is all I can say he played his best hockey, and he has contributed to the country by playing hockey, and the standard he has set as a goalkeeper, it will inspire the next generation
